July 2010

7/1 Early July may seem a bit "out of focus" but this happens mainly if you're trying to follow very linear tasks. The Pisces moon invites drifting and dreaming in a way that can seem obsessive, but you can start to move through it more purposefully as the day continues. This can be an inspired time for anyone in the arts or enjoying water activities, but it is important to keep in mind whatever your responsibilities may be. Writers can move along the page with inspiration. This looks like a harmonious evening to enjoy by water, dancing, an outdoor film and/or listen to music.

7/2 Yesterday's creativity and yen for escapism continues. Lucky are you if a long weekend beckons. If you are working, avoid starting any new projects especially with sensitive deadlines. If you are having a professional discussion, get things in writing but don't sign any contracts. When energy is this creative, "reality" is very subjective and malleable. As you can imagine, that's terrific for the imagination and fun and dicey for a business environment. Nice evening to indulge in your idea of fantastic as long as you do it responsibly.

7/3 The moon is VOC* from 7:17 am to 9:44 am ET. Once it enters Aries, projects begun have a good chance of coming to auspicious completion. Although the mood may seem to encourage an individual path, the real victors in today's endeavors will be those who take the time to work through the hitches with people. Don't be discouraged if you hit a seemingly impossible impasse, it all depends on who you know. This doesn't mean you have to have friends in high places (except of course, openness to Spirit's guidance and a respect for your own Higher Self). If you're sailing along and you hit a daunting cross-current, hold your line and keep steady. You need to be able to meet the challenge head-on to overcome it. Even if you feel it has overcome you, keep your eye on the high mark. You may change your direction, and still make your ideal.

7/4 If you're an Aries, Cancer, Libra or Capricorn, you may be experiencing a lot of situations beyond your control. This is a volatile Independence Day for the United States. It does not have to end badly, but it may get a rocky start. If you hear negativity in the news or encounter a disagreement, realize each individual either magnifies or mitigates a situation by his/her behavior and reaction to it. That means if you get angry, fearful, or frustrated you're going to increase that even if you're not directly involved. If you get swept into it, you're certainly not free from it. This is a powerful day to concentrate on the emotions you'd like to expand when thinking of national pride, whether or not you're a U.S. citizen. It is Malia Obama's birthday, and I'm guessing she's celebrating it with hopefulness in spite of the confusion of war and aggressive behavior towards her father.

7/5 Since Uranus stations retrograde today, don't be surprised by abrupt changes and sudden revelations. I wish I could tell you what, but that's all part of the surprise... it will probably be something that is seen on a large scale. The energetic blast is neutral, but where you are and what you're doing will have a lot to do with the effect. Terrific day for prayer work and visioning an intention. If you want to galvanize a group or network with a holistic or spiritual goal, this is a great day to say it out loud. Moon VOC 5:24- 8:29 pm ET.

7/6 The Taurus moon over the next couple of days opens up potential for follow-through and accomplishment. Focus improves but don't make it all work and no play. You may be caught off guard by the scent of lilies or the seduction of an ice cream shop. You can give yourself (and your team) rewards for work well done. Plan an evening to enjoy the pleasures around you and the company of someone you love.

7/7 An excellent day for moving forward with a project. Be sure to exercise or take a walk. Communication can be very effective when you take the time to chew over facts and listen carefully. You may receive a valuable correspondence. Travel can be smooth and connections easily made. If you experience a sense of lack in the evening ET or have some difficulty in a relationship, realize this is a mood that will pass. Give yourself a different perspective or change your environment because everything may look better in the morning.

7/8 Moon VOC from 2:09 to 3:51 am ET. A morning (ET) call, message or encounter may bring good news. It's possible that you feel like you could use brakes; activities and conversations move from one to the other, planned and unplanned. A Venus/Neptune picture in the sky indicates a longing for love. Someone you care about may be unavailable or not feeling him/herself. It also may bring into highlight any money issues or problems you're experiencing. This can be useful in bringing attention to help define or understand methods for change, either in love or money. This is not the time to take direct action, but to consider options and explore conversation.

7/9 Expect fiery and impetuous conversations, which can be charismatic and exciting or can be full of a simple desire to "look at me!" If you are delivering a message, make sure your content matches your impact and then you can't miss. If you're making a presentation, it may be hard to stay the center of attention since things are energetically pulling from all directions. Do your best to use that to your advantage. In general, keep your eyes on the road. Distractions abound which can be inspiring or lead to trouble if you're not watching all avenues.

7/10 Moon VOC 6:17 to 7:38 am ET The Virgo moon over the weekend sets up a more cohesive time to get things done. If your work week was frustrating, this can offer the antidote. And if you work on the weekend, this can be a productive couple of days. However, you must address the heavy emotional charge that pulses along or it will catch you by surprise.

Today is the balsamic moon (the day before the New Moon) when you can go within to find the seed of what you want to bring forth thematically for home, nurturing, family and memory. Although this may bring up some difficult feelings, it is always important to know your feelings. Venus enters Virgo, indicating an impulse to help or fix a situation increases. If you want to rid something unpleasant before it has time to work its way out, remember that a small amount of pus (yuk!) is a healthy body's way to rid itself of infection. The fact that it appears means the body is working its way to health. So the discomfort you may feel emotionally is your soul's way of guiding you to greater awareness.

7/11 The Cancer New Moon is a total solar eclipse which will be seen Nasa: path of the Moon's umbral shadow crosses the South Pacific Ocean where it makes no landfall except for Mangaia (Cook Islands) and Easter Island (Isla de Pascua). The path of totality ends just after reaching southern Chile and Argentina. The Moon's penumbral shadow produces a partial eclipse visible from a much larger region covering the South Pacific and southern South America Because the moon is in the sign of Cancer, it carries with it the residue of the emotional churning of hitting the Uranus/Pluto/Saturn T square. We are being asked to re-integrate the Great Mother to her rightful place.

Tribal to Individual - to Merger

19 Cancer 24 at 3:40 pm ET During the celebration of some fete the canals of Venice are crowded ; in a gondola are serenaders merry-making.

7/12 Stepping into the workweek after the eclipse weekend may feel a bit like leaving a submarine and stepping on a cruise ship. Everything may move by in fast, colorful overtures but nothing has any tenacity. Enjoy the show and don't get attached. It's a great day for a party. If you're back at work, this can be a creative day for brainstorming even though nothing may take root. Moon VOC from 7:48 to 8:53 am

7/13 Fun, games, illusions and theatre can be highly entertaining as long as you don't take anything on more than face value. A Venus/Pluto picture may suggest an fascination with a person or object. You decide if it's "look don't touch" or if it makes sense to engage. Nothing desirable will outlast the longing however, so don't put out more than you're willing to lose.

7/14 A terrific day for shrewd investment with your time and growing potential. You can forge deep and valuable relationships, so if you have a networking or partnership opportunity, consider it. A Virgo moon is brilliant at taking care of the details.

7/15 Similar to yesterday, but with a warrior's sense of righteousness, especially late in the day ET. Virgos especially may be feeling a great deal of strength of conviction, as will Taurus and Gemini. Wonderful time for bodywork, checking in with a health care professional or an exercise/diet program.

7/16 Finish any important conversation, correspondence or work by 9:46 am. Moon VOC from 9:46 to 10:24 am ET Once it enters Libra the stage is set for negotiations, although you may find a lot of mixed signals and cross purposes initially. Don't get discouraged but take your time before making any commitments or compromises. Whether or not you're involved in litigation, you may find people are a bit disagreeable. The mood may change by early evening ET and you can slip into pleasant conversations and forget about any unpleasantness.

7/17 A fun day for visiting friends, lively conversation and cultural pursuits. Enjoy yourself whether at a picnic or party, dancing or romancing. It's time to reach out and connect with someone or a group, whether new friends or familiar and true. Creative projects begun today can transcend expectations (although they may take longer to finish than anticipated).

7/18 The Moon is VOC from 10:26 am to 1:42 pm ET Once it enters Scorpio you may feel like a detective novel or film, experience an intense desire to research especially financial matters, or be in the company of someone very close to you... one who you'd like to know better.

7/19 Projects begun today have an excellent chance of working out well, but it's very important to go over contracts and communications carefully. People are more apt to get into longer and deeper conversations at social events than casual chit-chat. If you're trying to solve a problem, the next couple of days look good for getting the right advice or leads.

7/20 As yesterday, a reflective, seeking mood is the tone of the day. You may feel right in your element, or as though the mood is too intense. Depending on your profession, a lot of digging up information can be done. It's a good day for following a paper trail to get to the root of a problem, or to present a proposal that requires a compelling story. The VOC Moon occurs 7:43 pm to 7:48 ET. Once it enters Sagittarius, the party begins.

7/21 The Sagittarian moon may indicate a sunny attitude toward certain endeavors. But Saturn returns to Libra (11:09 am), re-activating the Cardinal Catalyst combination. This can still be a day of grand vision, but it requires an unshaking sense of faith to carry through any struggle that may ensue. This is certainly possible, but not for the optimistically frail.

7/22 The Sun enters Leo (6:21 am) which may feel like a relief or too hot too quick. An ability to dream the big dream may return and the chutzpah to carry it through. An overall good day for any endeavor, just be sure not to lock horns or lose sight of what's important if egos get in the way.

7/23 Dreams may release a great deal of tension in the early morning. Jupiter turns station retrograde at 8:03 am, beginning a period of luck within or the angel on your shoulder, instead of front and center. This may cause you to feel a bit of your wings get clipped or the site of your heights need to lower. Realize you are being asked to look twice, make responsible foundations and create disciplines which will help you obtain your goals. Keep steady on whatever your path and you will make it.

7/24 The Capricorn moon intensifies the sense that some editing must be done and choices made. It is important to realize you aren't necessarily losing anything, you're simply focusing. As you make right choices and winnow down your tasks, real accomplishment occurs.

7/25 This is the full moon in Aquarius 3°. The moon is VOC from 10:20 am to 3:38 pm ET This is magical energy. If you vision what it is you wish to bring to fruition through your individual expression into groups or for the greater good, you can awaken all paths to lead you for each step. If you write, write, if you paint, do that, sing, do that, love, laugh and express yourself with as many people as you want around you to create concentric circles of imaginative energy to expand and heal. Everyone you meet or spend time with is a teacher.

7/26 Similar energetically to yesterday, but with more bumps in the road. You may have trouble expressing some ideas or choosing between what looks like freedom against where your responsibilities lie. But both masters must be paid. Exact Saturn/Uranus in cardinal

7/27 A super day for networking and making things happen. Especially in the creative arenas, but everything works better with a spiritual perspective.

7/28 Time to put the brakes on any new ventures (starting today) especially ones looking for financial outcomes. You are more in the frame of mind to research information than to speculate or trust. You need to build solid relationships but nothing feels definite today. Better to take a beach day or go to an AC movie.

7/29 Yesterdays themes continue, although Mars enters Libra so the desire to relate may increase. Still, you may feel like you're missing the ones you love, no one's home or available. Tomorrow is another day.

7/30 The Aries moon harkens a return to action, but it doesn't kick in until 4:42 pm ET. This is a VOC day! so if you can take it off or clear the decks early, so much the better.

7/31 Fantastic day for moving forward and finishing up. Dream big as the energy to support the goal gets a boost with Mars/ Saturn.
